Kokoda Day

The Origin and Significance of Kokoda Day

- Kokoda Day is an annual day of acknowledgement for the veterans of the Second World War and to recognise their bravery and efforts in New Guinea.
- The Battle of Kokoda was a four-month struggle which began with the Japanese landing in Papua in July 1942, with the aim to take Port Moresby.
- From July to November 1942, Australian forces fought to prevent the Japanese from reaching Port Moresby and to push them back over the Owen Stanley Range. The range was a series of rugged mountains which are crossed only by a few foot tracks, one of which is the Kokoda Track.
- From September, the Australians forced the Japanese troops slowly back along the track and by 2 November 1942, they Australians had retaken Kokoda. The following day, now commemorated as Kokoda Day, the Australian flag was raised at Kokoda.
- About 56,000 Australians were at one time or another involved either in Papua or in sea or air operations there. More than 600 Australians were killed and more than 1,600 were wounded.
- To commemorate the Australians who served in the Second World War, including on the Kokoda Track, visit the Kokoda Track Memorial Walkway that stretches from Concord Hospital to Rhodes Station.

Remembrance Day

Communications / key messages

- At 11am on 11 November 1918, fighting in the First World War came to an end.
- Over 100 years later, we pause for a minute at 11am on Saturday, 11 November 2023 to remember the service and sacrifice of our veterans.
- The tradition of stopping at 11am started on the very first anniversary of Armistice Day in 1919 and has continued for over 100 years.
- This year marks the 105th anniversary of the First World War Armistice, where a peace settlement was signed to end 4 years of brutal conflict.
- Almost 62,000 Australians died fighting for our freedom and in service of our nation.
- 2023 marks the 70th anniversary of the Armistice of the Korean War.
- Seventy years ago on 27 July 1953, the Armistice was signed to end hostilities in Korea and effectively bring an end to war.
- The Korean War began on 25 June 1950 when North Korea invaded South Korea following clashes along the border and rebellions in South Korea. North Korea was supported by China and the Soviet Union while South Korea was supported by the United States and allied countries including Australia.
- Over 17,000 Australians served during the Korean War, of which 340 were killed and over 1,216 wounded. A further 29 had become prisoners of war.

- In mid-1962 the first Australian soldiers arrived in Vietnam, and over the next decade more than 60,000 Australians served there. Australia's involvement in the Vietnam War officially ended on 11 January 1973, with the last troops leaving in June 1973.
- A photographic exhibition is being hosted at the Anzac Memorial in Hyde Park Sydney to commemorate the anniversary with the photos and stories of 50 veterans and nurses who served in Vietnam.

The Origin and Significance of Remembrance Day

- Remembrance Day is an important day in Australia, and across the world.
- We observe one minute's silence at 11am and hold commemorations to remember those who died or suffered in all wars, conflicts.
- Red poppies are worn, inspired by the thousands that grew across the battlefields of the Western Front.
- In 1918, the Germans accepted the terms presented by the Allied Supreme Commander General Ferdinand Foch. In doing so, they signed an armistice on 11 November 1918 that ended the fighting between Germany and the Allies and brought a close to World War One.
- The armistice was signed in a railway carriage stationed at Compiègne forest, north of Paris, at 5:10 am, and it came into effect at 11 am.
- Prime Minister of Australia, William Hughes, received a cablegram from the Secretary of State for the Colonies in London. Dated '11 November 1918, 10.55 am', it read:
Most urgent. Armistice signed 5 a.m. this morning.
- Australia was a small nation with a population of fewer than five million. From this small population base, no less than 416,809 men enlisted of which 302,000 served overseas. Of these, 62,000 were killed and 155,000 wounded.
- More than 2,000 Australian nurses served in the Australian Army Nursing Service during World War One. Twenty-five Australian nurses died during the war and eight were awarded the Military Medal for bravery.

Making a poppy

Step by step process for making a poppy

- This project is targeted at primary students
 - Link to information from DVA: <https://anzacportal.dva.gov.au/commemoration/event-planning/poppies>

You'll need:

- thin cardboard
- red crepe paper
- green pipe cleaner
- black paper
- scissors
- pencil
- glue

What to do:

1. Use scissors to cut out a poppy shape (see image) on cardboard to make a template.
2. Place the poppy template on the red crepe paper and trace around it with a pencil.
3. Cut out the poppy shape with scissors.
4. To make the stalk, take a pipe cleaner and bend the end over twice at 1cm lengths.
5. Push the straight end of the pipe cleaner through the middle of the red poppy shape and continue to thread it through until the bent end sits against the middle of the poppy.
6. Cut a small circle out of the black paper and glue it onto the centre of the poppy. The centre will secure the green pipe cleaner to the red crepe paper poppy.
7. Bend and shape the pipe cleaner and poppy petals.

Additional creative: Combine many poppies in a circle to make a wreath (video link).

Colouring in activity

- The following two pages can be used as a colouring in activity, targeted at primary students.

The Poppy

In Australia and other countries of the Commonwealth, we recognise the red poppy as the commemorative flower of remembrance. The flower reminds us of those who lost their lives or suffered in wars, conflicts and peacekeeping operations. It's a tradition that began soon after the First World War.

In Flanders Fields (John McCrae)

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly

Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Making a wreath

Follow these instructions to make your own wreath.

You'll need:

- Cardboard or polystyrene, wire or dough base
- green wreath wrap or ribbon
- purple ribbon
- leaves
- native flowers or foliage
- scissors
- pencil or pen
- glue
- paper for a card

What to do:

1. Cover the base shape with wreath wrap or ribbon and secure it with glue.
2. Add the leaves in layers, starting from the top, with the pointy ends of the leaves pointing upwards (all in the same direction).
3. Add the local flora in a small cluster at the bottom of the wreath.
4. Place the purple ribbon on the wreath. It should start high on the left side of the wreath and finish low on the right side. This symbolises the sun rising in the east and setting in the west.
5. Add a small card with the words 'We will remember them' or 'Lest we forget'.
